Project title

Community based bioenergy research

Funded by: University of Nottingham

Duration: 1 year

Total amount sanctioned: £31,500

Background:

India is recognized as one of fastest growing economies of the world; however, basic energy needs of thousands of millions of its citizens are yet to be fulfilled. However, there is a serious energy supply-demand imbalance in the country. Growing energy demand coupled with limited conventional fuel options and environmental concern has compelled India to search for renewable and sustainable energy options. This proposal builds on the concept of developing a new community-scale energy solution for the production, management and utilisation of locally-produced bioenergy focusing on one of the poorest regions of India – Assam in the northeast.

Bioenergy technologies offer potential community solutions through the use of anaerobic digestion (AD) technologies offering piped biogas for clean cooking, heating and lighting. Biogas offers clean fuel to improve health and welfare conditions and improves household economies through diminished use of liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) and firewood. In this project we seek to increase livelihood earnings from AD through (1) the use of solar PV to enhance thermal stability of the digesters and maximise gas yield and (2) designing a low cost, small-scale mechanism for bottling the biogas. This will improve the prosperity and welfare of the disadvantaged and marginalised off-grid households. Our aim is to identify locally-acceptable and environmentally sustainable solutions that will enhance clean energy access and lead directly to economic and welfare benefits for individuals and households, promoting economic and social development of the participating villages. This proposal seeks to focus on adding economic value to community bioenergy systems using additional technologies such as solar PV to maintain thermal environment and bottling systems to offer value-added income generation opportunities.

Objectives

The proposed project aims to deliver the decentralize energy at household level with the strength of locally available bio-wastes and thus address the major issues viz, energy, employment and economy. We will test anaerobic digesters within a real community setting to understand how different community stakeholders work together to ensure equitable benefits to all stakeholders. We seek to establish whether excess production of clean energy from anaerobic digestion systems can be bottled to deliver a cheap, affordable and safe added-value product to improve livelihood incomes. We will engage with off-grid, rural communities to combine low cost solar PV systems to existing biogas digesters and develop a method of pressuring biogas into LPG containers for sale and use off site. We will run user group training and feedback meetings throughout the project to maximise benefit of the energy services and ensure all groups of community. The project will integrate the locally available unused biomass resources, use them efficiently, provide energy services, and improve the livelihood through capacity building.

Dear, R&D: Could you please do needful as suggested by VC

ussed I need two separate invoices from you as follows:

he attached GCRF project which you can use to demonstrate to your Dean the value of the ration under project "Optimising clean community biogas energy systems for poverty alleviation in dia" please can you send me a formal invoice for £16500 for research costs and consumables (solar maintenance of thermal environment & biogas bottling systems and associated consumables).

ant award closes at the end of this month & I have not managed to spend all of the travel costs but e between headings so the 16500 is the consumables plus some travel]

he HEFCE Newton Fund Project "Bioenergy from waste: exploring the multiplier benefits to poor nities of medium-scale technology interventions" I was awarded £15,000 (not the full amount I for).

ou please therefore send me a separate invoice for £15,000 for the installation of medium ogas systems in Jhawani village hope that with funds from both of these projects we can install a number of separate digesters in as well as complete the digestate management/vermicompost units so that we can progress our ere and give them some energy access. I am still keen on bottling as the research component I appreciate it is very much research at the small-scale, so if we can progress that too it would be pful since otherwise it is hard to see how we can make a community scale system work!

d to receive the invoices in ~~the coming~~ few days as the projects end at the end of this month.

hile I hope you and your family are having a happy Holi

Proposal for allocation of Additional funding;

India remains a stratified country where the poorest citizens lack access to energy services. This proposal builds on existing projects to develop a new community-scale solution for the production, management and utilisation of locally-produced bioenergy focused on one of the poorest regions of India - Assam in the northeast. Funds are requested for consumables to enable the construction and installation of two community-scale biodigesters in an off-grid location with the purpose of generating sustainable energy. The location chosen is off-grid and holds feedstocks sufficient for the generation of sustainable energy yet to date no systems exist and Indian government schemes operate only at household level. This project seeks to deliver and test in a co-produced manner an up-scaled locally generated solution which offers the advantages of an affordable and sustainable system which, if successful, could be replicated across the region.
Community engagement and contribution includes donation of the land to support the project and the setting up of a village steering group and management team. Researchers from partner organisations have to date surveyed bioenergy feedstocks and engaged in social survey to develop an economic model for sustainable generation of locally produced energy services.

What are the key activities that the funding will support?

We seek funding to establish and test at scale digesters within a real community setting (and one living in poverty) to understand and measure the multiplier benefits of such interventions on individual socioeconomic wellbeing.
If funded digester construction works will start immediately and testing and community engagement will continue throughout 2017 to understand how different community stakeholders work together to ensure equitable benefits to all stakeholders. Despite Indian government energy schemes spanning decades, impacts have been limited because the needs and behaviours of communities have been ignored. We will run user group training and feedback meetings throughout the project to maximise benefit of the energy services and ensure all groups, including women and the disadvantaged benefit from the project.
Travel funds are not requested as travel is provided by the existing Newton Bhabha SMARTIES

Dear Shweta,

Greetings from Tezpur University!

In the month of February 2019, NITI Aayog had organized a National level workshop on 'Improving Dietary Diversity in Selected Districts under POSHAN Abhiyaan' wherein Academic Institutions were invited for participation. In the North East Region two institutions were selected and Tezpur University was one of them. The deliberations in the workshop pointed towards adopting a multidisciplinary approach towards Nutrition and advocated for convergence of different departments in addressing Nutritional concerns. In continuation to this, we intend to start a Nutrition and Community Action Resource Centre (NCARe Centre) at the Department of Social Work to realise the mandate of Niti Aayog in the area of Nutrition. The centre envisages to contribute through research, community action, and education and subsequently develop into a support unit for the State Government. The concept note and a budget is attached for your consideration.

Yours sincerely,

C K Sharma

State Nutrition and Community Action Resource Centre (NCARe Centre)

Background.

The rationale for working on Nutrition is widely recognized It is crucial to the holistic development as well as critical from the Human Rights perspective Nutrition is considered as one of the most effective points in dealing with Human development, poverty reduction and economic development [1] The National Family Health Survey 4 (NFHS-4) reports that more than 36% children under the age of five years are stunted in Assam and more than 17% under-five children are wasted. The recently published Human Development Report 2014 highlights that Assam falls under the band of poor performing states among the other states of the country with regard to health and nutrition.

With more than a million under-five children stunted in the state, there is a need for strong multi-sectoral actions to improve the status of nutrition. The GoI has launched the Poshan Abhiyaan with the aim to holistically address the multi-sectoral problem of undernutrition. Under Poshan Abhiyaan the state has a target of reducing child stunting by 2% points per annum As the state strives to achieve this target, Tezpur University envisages playing the role of a technical and knowledge management partner to the state government to support building multi-sectoral solutions for addressing malnutrition in Assam.

Tezpur University's Past Work on Nutrition

In 2018, Tezpur University had collaborated with UNICEF Assam to support a study on Nutrition Counselling and Management Centres (NCMCs) in the state The NCMCs are functioning at various districts, located at District Civil Hospitals and Public Health Centres The NCMCs have a designated Nutrition counsellor who performs a range of activities like (i) counselling on Maternal Infant and Young Child Nutrition; (ii) identification and referral of children with severe acute malnutrition, (iii) identifying Moderate Acute Malnutrition (MAM) children, counsel the mothers and do follow ups (iv) counselling the pregnant and the lactating women (v) taking up preventive measures to tackle malnourishment (vi) field visits to Village health nutrition day (VHND) etc One of the findings of this study was the crucial role the counsellors are playing to address the concerns relating to Nutrition The study also found certain challenges that the counsellors face considering the limited perspective and understanding they hold while carrying out their responsibilities

The above study brought the University's attention to the fact that there is a scope of skill enhancement and perspective building in the area of Nutrition Until recent times, the field of nutrition has been linked with ensuring availability of food for good nutrition and provision of medical care to address cases of malnutrition. The findings of the study mentioned above highlighted that there needs to be a multidisciplinary approach to Nutrition to address the concerns The social and cultural aspects of a community need to be taken into consideration to understand their behavior, attitudes and opinions regarding nutrition. There is a necessity to explore the locally available resources and how nutritional aspects can be addressed through multisectoral solutions. Ample evidence is available which highlights the factors leading to malnutrition and the high-impact interventions for maternal, infant and young child nutrition (MIYCN) The challenges lie in taking these high-impact interventions to scale and with quality.

The discussions of the University with UNICEF representatives over the last one year, have led to initiation of work towards designing a PG Diploma course on multi-disciplinary approaches to nutrition While the University envisages to take ahead this work towards rolling out this course in 2020, the University proposes to house a State Resource Centre on Nutrition, to support the State government in taking ahead the agenda of Poshan Abhiyaan.

Tezpur University, is also one of the two institutes from the state which have been mapped by Niti Ayog, with the aim to strengthen convergence between various departments like Agriculture, Panchayati Raj, Education, Social Welfare and Health. The ongoing deliberations between Tezpur University and UNICEF Assam on the need to have a multidisciplinary approach to the subject (of Nutrition) was also seen to be resonating with the policy makers. Tezpur University is also keen to take ahead this mandate encouraged by Niti Ayog on setting-up a technical support unit which can act in tandem with the respective State Governments in the near future.

State Nutrition and Community Action Resource (NCARe) Centre

The University proposes to house a State Resource Centre on Nutrition, to support the State government in taking ahead the agenda of Poshan Abhiyaan The Resource Centre is proposed to be named as "Nutrition and Community Action Resource Centre" and in short can be appropriately known as 'NCARe Centre'. The Resource Centre would commit to work intensively in the area of nutrition with all vulnerable and marginal groups in the society

It is envisaged that this centre will complement the state's efforts under Poshan Abhiyaan, by fostering collaboration, designing technical courses, documentation of good practices, supporting technical trainings, demonstration of models, concurrent monitoring and independent evaluations for nutrition interventions, based on the state's requirements The purpose of the Resource Centre can only be fulfilled by working in close collaboration with the State govt to complement the ongoing efforts under Poshan Abhiyan. The Resource Centre will hold regular consultations with the state leadership to understand the state's needs and accordingly develop annual action plans for the Centre

The resource centre is planned to be housed at School of Humanities and Social Sciences with Dept of Social Work Representatives from all relevant schools/departments within TU will together form the core group at the resource centre.

The objectives of NCARe Centre will be

1 To strengthen multi-sectoral collaboration on nutrition
2 To assume the role of a technical support unit to the State Government in the field of Nutrition.
3. To support the state government to take forward the mandate of Poshan Abhiyaan.

Organizational Structure

The Resource Centre will be steered by a core committee with four members with one Head The identified five members are from the Department of Social Work, Sociology and Molecular Biology and Biotechnology. The Centre would also appoint a knowledge expert on Nutrition and a data management personnel to look into the smooth functioning of the Centre.

Head of NCARe Centre – 1
Core Committee members – 4
Technical subject Expert – 1
Knowledge Management Expert – 1

The Resource Centre would begin by taking up activities at the grassroots to mark the 'Poshan Maah'. The initial activities will be at the village level and the sites will be schools and the Village health and Nutrition Day The activities will help the centre to build a connect with the community and also contribute in the state level celebrations of Poshan Maah The Resource Centre will be inaugurated formally during the closing ceremony of the Poshan Maah.

As one of the primary activities of the Resource Centre, the initial months will be spent in building linkages with the State Government. Since, the objective of the Centre is to work along with the State Government, this would be very crucial for establishing its mandate with the Government

The course on 'Multidisciplinary approaches to Nutrition' (mentioned above) will be offered as a Distance learning course so that it is convenient for the employed people to pursue it. The course will be rolled out in the Autumn semester of 2020. The distance mode of education requires intensive engagement in developing the Self Learning Material which provides the spine for the course This material will be developed under the aegis of the Resource Centre.

Future plans

The Resource Centre will take up projects related to nutrition in the near future, in consultation with state government and UNICEF Assam The Centre will carry out capacity building workshops with the people working in the area of Nutrition The Centre will also thrive towards working on effective and sustainable models of community action in the area of Nutrition In addition to this, it would engage academia and civil society in the field of Nutrition and carry out policy deliberations to facilitate the state machinery for effective implementation of policies and schemes on Nutrition

While the University requests for financial support from UNICEF for initiation and rolling-out of activities under the NCARe Centre, the University will continue to build its own capacities to take this ahead in the long-run In the next few years, the University will make efforts to build mechanisms to build strategic mechanisms, in collaboration with the state government, to ensure continued functioning of the resource centre for years to come.

PURPOSE

A. The Agreement is made between the Parties who are sharing a joint aim to provide clean energy technologies to replace fossil fuel driven energy technology in a cost-efficient manner.

B. The purpose of this Agreement is to make provisions for the future collaboration between Parties to introduce clean energy technology and smart grid management system at the Tezpur University Campus, Tezpur, India.

BACKGROUND

Pamoja Cleantech AB (PC) has been awarded financing from the Swedish Energy Agency to increase collaboration and technology transfer between Indian and Swedish businesses and research parties with a special focus on micro-grid innovation and renewable energy technology. PC will introduce Tezpur University (TU) to Royal Institute of Technology in Stockholm (KTH), Sweden, which may open up further opportunities for international research collaboration among the Parties.

TU wishes to reduce its annual energy costs whilst still maintaining or improving the level of energy access and availability at the University Campus. TU with the leadership of the Department of Energy, is therefore seeking to accelerate the rate of introduction of renewable energy generation equipment, energy management and new equipment designed to improve the energy efficiency of TUs power distribution and grid infrastructure. TU is, however, constrained by a need to avoid staff increases and capital investment and is therefore willing to set up this Energy Savings Agreement between the Parties.

Thus, hereby Parties agree on the introduction of a holistic energy system combining solar and biomass energies in a Smart hybrid system that will use Swedish State of the Art technology for Smart Grid Management. A high level of innovation will be applied with demand response, central production of hot water, Second generation biomass gasification system for power generation and production of biochar. The Micro-grid will also be a unique learning centre for the university students and research professionals, a training tool for power utilities, and while at the same time generating power for local loads at the University campus.

1. PRINCIPLES GOVERNING THE PARTIES

The parties have agreed to move forward together on the basis of the following guiding principles:

(a) Commitment to sustainable approach to energy services;

(b) Mutual respect for each other's complementary strengths;

(c) Commitment to responsive, flexible and transparent manner of developing and carrying out joint activities.

2. AREAS OF COLLABORATION

Through this Agreement, Parties agree to make a mutual commitment, which simultaneously aims at joint Research and Energy Saving measure for the benefit of Tezpur University. However, all provisions require a financial approval by Swedish Energy Agency and in case that cannot be achieved, then all parties can terminate the Agreement in accordance with Clause 8.3.

(a) Collaborating on research activities that aim to collect, analyse and categorize energy data to provide input for energy management system.

(b) Collaborating on identification of joint R&D opportunities that may benefit Renewable Energy Technology innovation.

(c) Collaborating on research that aims to test and certify different biomass and waste feedstock that may be used in biomass gasification and pyrolysis systems for production of electricity, heat and/or biochar.

(d) Collaborating on research that aim at understanding different use of energy crops and plantation such as agroforestry in Assam, India and how these systems can be designed to provide biomass for energy generation in a sustainable manner.

(e) Seek joint opportunities for financing of research activities and promote joint collaborations between TU and Universities in Sweden for research collaboration.

(f) Create a unique training facility of its kind in India for professional training to engineers in power utilities and other micro-grid developers.

(g) Use the micro-grid in capacity building activities at TU and potentially as a demonstration plant open to the public to increase awareness of clean energy solutions.

3. ROLES AND RESPONSABILITIES

3.1. ROLE OF TEZPUR UNIVERSITY

TU has identified a number of buildings and functions at the University Campus that will off-take power and heat for the project. Provided that financial approval from Swedish Energy Agency is granted for the project. Tezpur University will:

(a) aim to, before end of January 2018, sign a separate PPA with a solar developer for a 1000 kWp solar photovoltaic power plant that will initiate installation in 2018 and be fully installed and in operation before end of 2019; and;

4. SAVINGS TARGET AND PAY-BACK OF INVESTMENT

4.1 A detailed list of energy savings measures and equipment that shall be installed in order to obtain ongoing cost and energy savings is provided in Appendix 2. The Parties have detailed workout on the technical concept that aim to reduce the use of four 500kVA Diesel gensets used as a backup power source on the campus. For the finalization of the technical plan, TU has supplied and in case of any missing data TU will supply all available information in regard to - hours of operation, energy consumption and costs, service levels, building descriptions and building usage, existing energy equipment, or any other information that may still be needed for ensuring accurate planning efforts towards the implementation of the following equipment at the University Campus. The proposals detailed out in Appendix 2 are the result of the Initial Energy Audit.

4.2 A Preliminary Energy Audit has established the preliminary understanding of the opportunities for cost effective improvements at the project site. The Parties have agreed on preliminary saving targets on the specific energy tariffs provided by TU. TU wishes to take advantage of the fundamental principle of energy shared savings contracting, namely, that Contractor invests in new equipment in order to achieve energy savings sufficient to repay the equipment investment, reward the contractor for his risk-taking and the use of his facilities and allow TU a significant energy cost reduction right from the time of installation of the new equipment. The energy savings shall benefit the TU so that it can cut cost of its energy expenditure with a certain percentage of the baseline data which shall be established for the Two-year period i.e. January 2016 - December 2017. The exact savings target shall be defined in the Energy Savings Agreement in January 2018. The Operative Partners consisting of PC and RMG will operate the project jointly. A separate investment teaming agreement has been signed among the Operative Partners that stipulates the investment and profit sharing among the Operative Partners in order to recover and payback the initial capital expenditure investment.

Appendix 1

The preliminary proposal is to base the tariffs in the Energy Savings Agreement on the costs of alternative energy sources (reference rates). The reference rates are based on a campus with 2MW grid connection, 1MWp grid-tie, roof-top solar PV plant, 4x500kVA diesel back-up generators, and LPG for cooking and partial use of solar hot water systems for hot water generation. The production costs for solar power, grid power, diesel power, and LPG are inherently different. The reference rates will be re-negotiated every year based on the average alternative rates during the previous year. By measuring the instantaneous transfer of power at the transformers in real time, three distinctly different scenarios are possible:

A. National grid is intact, and power is imported from the national grid
B. National grid is intact, and power is exported to the national grid
C. National grid is disconnected

The corresponding alternative costs for each scenario are:

A. Current rate for grid power (Present Rate of DISCOM: Rs. 7.05/kWh)
B. Current rate for solar power (PPA Rate with Solar Developer: Rs. 2.42/kWh)
C. Current rate for diesel power (roughly 60Rs/L)

The reference rate for LPG is the same for all scenarios, and will be based on the current rate of LPG bottles. The proposed rates for sales of power from the E4T Micro Grid platform for each scenario are:

A. 95% of grid rate
B. 100% of solar rate (Rate at which Tezpur University signed the PPA with solar developer)
C. 80% of diesel rate (calculated from actual price of diesel and actual diesel consumption)

In addition, two types of energy savings systems will also be included on the platform: the first being a thermal grid for providing hot water, heating and producer gas from the CHP systems and gasifiers, and the second being a wireless demand response system called LuminGo using Load Management Units (LMU) that can toggle secondary priority loads on and off depending on the availability of grid/solar power. The heat from the CHP will be used for water heating. The hot water will be supplied to both toilets/bathrooms of the hostels and kitchens. The hot water supplied to the toilets/bathrooms will supplement the existing solar hot water system and supplied to the hostels where there is no solar hot water provisions. The amount of heat provided will be measured at the point of delivery to each hostel. Producer gas from the biomass gasifiers can be used in the kitchens in specially designed producer gas cookers to replace LPG cookers. Since measuring the flow of hot producer gas is difficult, the sale of producer gas will instead be based on a daily tariff per number of cookers, which will be further negotiated and agreed upon in the

कुलसचिव
तेजपुर विश्वविद्यालय
Registrar

Scanned by TapScanner

Energy Savings Agreement. The LMUs will initially only shut off deferrable loads to save diesel, and will thus use the diesel rate as reference. Each individual LMU measures voltage and current in real time, and will calculate the saved power by multiplying the time that the load is off by the product of the average voltage and current in the hour before being shut off. The savings from the LuminGo system will be verified with the actual consumption of diesel at the end of each quarter year. Our proposed rates for energy savings are:

(a) 50% of diesel rate for power saved by the LMUs.
(b) The rate of heat will be negotiated and defined in the Energy Savings Agreement
(c) The rate for producer gas will be based on a daily tariff per number of cookers, which will be defined in the Energy Savings Agreement

Appendix 2

The equipment included in the proposed E4T Micro Grid platform to be installed at Tezpur University campus in two separate phases are:

- 140kVA multimode inverter system
- 90kWh advanced Li-ion battery system
- LuminGo demand response system with minimum 50 LMUs
- 200kWth biomass gasifier for co-production of biochar
- Two-way online power meter to measure import/export of power to micro grid

Second phase (2019)

- 14 x 5kVA biomass fired Stirling CHP engines (possibly upgrade to 10kVA engine generators)
- 140-240kVA multimode inverter system
- 90kWh advanced Li-ion battery system
- LuminGo demand response system with minimum 50 LMUs
- 200-400kWth biomass gasifier for co-production of biochar
- Two-way online power meter to measure import/export of power to micro grid

Information Security Education and Awareness (ISEA) Project (Phase-II)

Structure and Functions of Participating Institutes

Based on the experience gained during implementation of the ISEA Project, it is proposed to scale up formal & non-formal courses and faculty updation programs in the area of Information Security at various levels. This would mainly include B.Tech., M.Tech., Doctoral/Post-Doctoral, Short-Term Specialized/Modular Courses, etc. This is proposed to be achieved through a two-tier mechanism/structure comprising of Resource Centres (RCs) and Participating Institutes (PIs).The structure & functions -- setting up of RCs & PIs, formal program and short-term course to be offered by RCs/PIs, faculty training aspects, targets and approach to syllabus revision are presented in the succeeding section.

Setting up of Participating Institutes (PIs)

Participating Institutes (PIs)

It is proposed to have three categories of PIs:

(i) 23 Institutes (to include remaining PIs of Phase-I, NITs, State Universities/R&D labs/Engineering Institutes, etc)
(ii) 12 Centres of CDAC & NIELIT; and
(iii) Special category PIs: 05 Technical Universities, National Institute(s) of Technical Teachers Training and Research (NITTRs), etc.

In totality 40 PIs would be chosen to participate in the Phase-II.

The first category covering 23 PIs would introduce Information Security Curriculum at B.Tech and M.Tech Levels. Some of these (Type-I) would be groomed to launch new course in M.Tech in Information Security / integrated B.Tech / M.Tech (IS/CS). While the others (Type-II) will carry out retrofitting of their existing B.Tech/M.Tech courses with Information Security courses.

The second category of 12 PIs from CDAC and NIELIT centres (Type-III) have been proposed to carry out 6-Month/1 yr. PG Diploma, Short-term practical/hands-on oriented training programme for the System Administrator/professionals, Certification of Professionals, etc. Also they would be involved in Government Official Training as envisaged in the project.

Special category PIs (Type IV): The third category i.e. 05 Technical Universities in State/ UTs as PIs has been added to broaden the reach of the Phase-II to a large category of students who are enrolled through various colleges affiliated to these Universities. These universities with suitable hand holding by ISRDC/RCs are expected to spread the Information Security courses not only in their own units but also to their affiliated engineering colleges.

These PIs would be conducting faculty development training programmes for their affiliated engineering colleges and other colleges in their region. These colleges can then in turn introduce Information Security curriculum in their B.Tech. and M.Tech. courses. This would also provide the opportunity to the affiliated engineering colleges to have access/exposure to the research aspects which are obtaining in the ISRDCs/RCs. This would also provide an subject area which could be used effectively for Technology forecasting, trend analysis, tracking the R&D developments, etc.

Faculty Training & Syllabus revision

It is proposed to suitably address/incorporate the lessons learnt from implementing the current project in terms of currency of syllabus in-line with the emerging needs and regular updating of faculty in sync with these changes, by launching suitable Faculty Training program and syllabus revision as given below:

- Each ISRDC would conduct Advance Faculty Training Programs in line with their thematic research area through short duration modular courses for the benefit of RCs and PIs.
- As the Information Security is constantly evolving with emergence of newer technologies and new research area, there is a need to continuously revise the syllabus. But, the syllabus revision cannot be undertaken until two batches pass out. This would lay a restriction of five years tenure for under graduate level syllabus and three years tenure for masters. However, this limitation could be overcome by ensuring that the minor/major project works undertaken by the students are of current /emerging topics.
- Each ISRDC, RC could announce a Faculty Training Program calendar well in advance. These training programs could be of short duration modular courses and would be aimed at the faculty of the PIs. Each cluster could identify and nurture a pool of experts from academic institution, industries etc. Technology enhanced learning including virtual laboratory could be extensively deployed for wider spread of such Faculty Training Program.

Non-formal courses & Short-term courses for professionals

The project would also incorporate a suitable methodology of launching non-formal courses and short-term courses for updating the skills/competencies of working professionals through C-DAC, NIELIT. The following are the salient features:

- In the area of non-formal courses it is proposed to implement the concept of virtual university by integrating formal and non-formal courses with a provision for flexible movement and credit transfer. Modular programs would be launched through C-DAC and NIELIT.
- C-DAC and NIELIT would also run formal & non-formal courses which would be integrated with virtual lab environment. NIELIT is in the process of setting up of a Virtual University and launch courses on a modular basis with flexibility to move from formal to non-formal course and vice-a-versa. C-DAC and NIELIT would closely collaborate for launching such courses in the Information security. This would also be targeted towards the requirements of government sectors and professionals working in autonomous societies/public sectors incorporating the provision of modularization and seem-less mobility of students between the C-DAC centres and NIELITs centres by incorporating cross recognition and credit transfer features.
- Conduct short-term courses - 6 month certificate course (Modular and Integratable to PG level)
- Launch Live/Direct Modular courses aimed at Programmers/Developers/Network Professionals, Information Security Management Professionals, Critical Information Infrastructure protection professionals, etc.
- Conduct online courses in Information Security for industry professional (using virtual labs).

avenue for the faculties of these colleges to move toward obtaining PhD in Information Security area.

The Resource Centres are selected by National Apex Committee based on the recommendations of the Academic and Research Advisory Committee. These RCs would mentor up to Six (6) PIs which would be attached to them in the form of a cluster. This scaling up of the RC-PI Model, which has functioned efficiently in the previous ISEA Project, would facilitate achieving higher targets in-terms of number of human resource developed; and also enhancing the R&D activity, which would lead to generation of new knowledge.

Salient features of the RC-PI Structure are given below:

- As the Information Security is a constantly evolving area, the faculty of the proposed 07 Resource Centres would be actively involved in carrying out R&D, Academic activities and in constant interaction & cooperation with Four (4) Information Security Research & Development Centre (ISRDC) set up under the project, National/International community working in this area.
- Each RC would constantly interact with the PIs in its cluster and would also organize Faculty Training Program during the summer and winter vacation period. It is also essential to scale up the faculty-training course for PIs, through adoption of technology enhanced learning such as virtual labs, etc.
- 40 PIs with the constant mentoring from the RCs would conduct B. Tech/M. Tech, Short-Term Specialized/Modular Courses.
- The RCs & PIs would be grouped into 07 clusters with upto 6 PIs attached to an RC, taking into account their geographic proximity.
- These clusters could take up joint research projects on commonly identified research topics. RCs/PIs would also associate industries for joint research project.
- The RCs would facilitate the PIs in establishing a suitable placement mechanism.
- Suitable Information system would be put in place in all the RCs & PIs to track the students who had been trained under this program. The alumni corner to track the students who have undergone academic courses could be done through common ISEA website.

Launching formal courses on virtual mode using NKN

As a part of Learning Module development, it would be worthwhile to develop several one semester modular courses in the area of Information Security. These could be spawned as user oriented M.Tech. Programme and courses could be offered jointly over NKN by ISRDCs, RCs/PIs. Students can registers at RCs/PIs following suitable selection procedure. This would facilitate expanding the capacities and reach wider section of professionals and others.

The following programs can be implemented through NKN:

- One semester formal modular course on Information Security
- Online labs for Government officials
- Information security courseware repository for the benefit of RCs, PIs and other Implementing Agencies
- Deployment of E-Learning courses to continuously support professionals with requisite flexibility
- Creating a separate virtual group for ISEA's participating institutions.
- Proof of concept labs in Information Security.
- Technology Forecasting and the concerned lab analysis can be planned through NKN facility. The potential of the NKN to be used for getting access to latest trend in the Code No. NTRF:191/2016.

Annexure-1

1) Objectives:

1. Study of the interaction between selected tea pesticides and MOS with different dopants and at different temperature, using simple chemical technique for fabrication.
2. High-tech fabrication of the MOS obtained through step-1. MOS dopant combination with sensitive response to 3 pesticides will be identified.
3. Study of the cross reactivity of the developed pesticide sensor (MOS) towards tea aroma and that of tea aroma sensors towards pesticides.
4. Sensor integration with multiple sensing units selected based on above steps 1 to 3, in tandem with appropriate computational technique.

2) Duration: 4 Years

3) Deliverables: The proposed study will develop a highly sensitive and highly efficient MOS based gas sensor (e-nose) for quality assessment of tea.

Summary
This project will engage with smallholders in Assam, India, to encourage sustainable use of organic inputs in order to improve crop nutrient use efficiency and yields. As part of a different project we built a community-scale anaerobic digester to satisfy the energy needs of the villagers. The resulting digested slurry is a vital fertiliser, but without knowledge of the nutrient content, the fertility of the soils and the nutrient requirements of the crops, inappropriate use could result in scorched plants or contaminated water. We aim to work with the community members to develop best agronomic practices so the slurry can be used effectively. This will improve crop yields, thereby benefiting the health and economic welfare of the community. The nitrogen-deficient alluvial soils of the area are typical across India and other parts of the world, as is anaerobic digestion; this project is therefore pertinent to areas outside this model community.

What is the underpinning research?
We aim to enhance crop production efficiency in a rural community in northeast India by initiating a programme of agronomic best practice to improve crop nutrient-use-efficiency. The BBSRC grants underpinning this project are: BB/02914X/1, Implication of enhanced ecological intensification and resilience for smallholder farming in the eastern Amazonia region, Newton Fund and BB/N013204/1 NUCLEUS: a virtual joint centre to deliver enhanced Nitrogen Use effiCiency via an integrated Soil- plant systEms approach for the Uk & BraSil. We will optimise sustainable use of organic residues derived from a community-scale anaerobic digester (AD) that we are installing in the off-grid village of Jawai in collaboration with Professor Debendra Chandra Baruah and his team (Tezpur University) (EP/J00361/1 Rural Hybrid Energy Enterprise Systems (RHEES)). The focus of the AD unit is to meet the energy needs of the community. However, a by-product of AD is nutrient-rich slurry. Judicious use of the slurry could result in polluted waters and lost nutrients. It is important that we support the needs of the farmers in managing the slurry and the nutrient requirements of their crops in order that they maximise potential agronomic benefits. The alluvial soils are nitrogen deficient, meaning crops do not reach optimum yields, thus the food security needs of the community are limited. Since alluvial soils are common in Northern India and other delta regions, and use of AD is common, lessons learned here with regard to organic matter inputs and nutrient use efficiency are relevant to large swathes of the world.

How does the project meet ODA requirements?
We are directly addressing poverty alleviation and rural development by enhancing crop production efficiency in a region of northeast India. In so doing, we aim to improve the quality and quantity of farmed food, enable villagers to market the excess produce and assist female members of the community to develop innovative outlets which will help generate steady livelihoods for families.

There is a clear development need addressed by the project, namely, sustainable economic development of a rural community in India. The lessons learned here with regard to improving agronomic practices (e.g. organic matter inputs and nitrogen use efficiency) and consequent economic and social enhancements will directly improve the wealth (financial, dietary and social) of the community members, but are also relevant to large areas of India and also globally. India is listed within the DAC List of ODA Recipients and we already have

Respected Sir,

I would like to inform you that the DST-sponsored project mentioned above has been extended by six months till 15 December 2020 as may be seen in the trailing email from DST.

I request you kindly to extend the tenure of the following three of the five existing JRsF mentioned below for two months, i.e., till 15 July:
(1) Mr. Krishnakamal Hazarika
(2) Ms. Tushmita Das
(3) Mr. Shamiran Baroi

To my knowledge, enough fund fund is available in the project, including salary head, which can be utilized in the extended period. As I cannot give you the exact figures of the amount available in the salary head, I a requesting you to extend service of only three of them and for only two months. The services of the other two JRF, namely, Mr. Manaskam Kakoti and Mr. Trishanku Bhuyan have automatically come to an end on 14 may 2020, the date of original completion date. Another JRF, Mr. Asadulla Asraf Ali has already resigned w.e.f. 28 April 2020.

I shall let you know the exact fund situation after lifting of lock-down and accordingly request you for further extension.

I request you kindly to issue extension orders to all three of them with a condition of "subject to availability of fund".

Kind regards,
Robin Dutta

Sub: Reg: Transfer of SERB project (Studies on signal transduction.....functional significance) from Tezpur University to IASST, Guwahati

Dear Prof. Karak

As you are aware, I have joined IASST, Guwahati on 23rd Nov, 2020. Initially, I decided that project may be continued under the PI-ship of Prof. R. Doley (Co-PI of the project), however, several technical difficulties are being faced for operation of this project at MBBT, Tezpur University and therefore, both the PI & Co-PI have mutually agreed to transfer this project at IASST, Guwahati. However, Prof. R. Doley will continue to act as Co-PI in the project.

In this regard, I am submitting a NOC from IASST and you are also requested to issue a NOC for the same so both can be submitted to the funding agency for transfer of the project as per rule.

The latest copy of UC/SE is enclosed and a copy of the project report is also enclosed with this letter for further necessary action at your end.

We wish to get your kind co-operation and prompt action at your end.

2.2 Investigator

Name of the Awardee: Dr. Pankaj Barah
Assistant Professor
Department of Molecular Biology and Biotechnology,
Tezpur Central University, Assam- 784028

Objectives

An integrative computational method will be developed, and benchmarked for the identification of significant noncoding mutations in plant and human genomes, in population scale.

The developed method will be used to delineate the role of cis-regulatory mutations on local climate adaptation and genome evolution in two plant species namely - Arabidopsis thaliana and Oryza sativa

Signatures of Intra-specific and inter-specific variations in cis-regulatory sequences will be identified using data from 1000 ecotypes of Arabidopsis thaliana, and 3000 cultivars of Oryza sativa.

Multi-omics data (DNA, RNA and methylome profiles) from human glioblastoma samples will be used to identify significant noncoding mutations associated with glioma progression and therapy resistance

Project will contribute towards human resource development, through teaching and research guidance.

2. To determine the combination dose regimen of promising Noscapinoid and Docetaxel (a clinically used taxane for metastatic breast cancer therapy) and evaluate its therapeutic outcome using in vitromodels.

Sambalpur University

3. To rationally design novel and potent derivative of Noscapine (called Noscapinoid) with high binding affinity onto α- and β-tubulin complex followed by chemical synthesis and structural characterization.
4. To evaluate the in vivo therapeutic efficacy of promising Noscapinoid as an inhibitor of localized and metastatic breast cancer using breast cancer model established in animal.
5. To evaluate the toxicity if any of promising Noscapinoid based on histopathology and hematology studies using animal model
6. To determine the combination dose regimen of promising noscapinoid and Docetaxel (a clinically used taxane for metastatic breast cancer therapy) and evaluate its therapeutic outcome using in vivo model as well as toxicity analysis.

Sub: Sanction of project on "Soil-Plant-Atmosphere Study in Relation to Net CO_2 Flux from Terrestrial Ecosystem of Assam"

Sir,

The Advisory Committee for the MetFlux India Project made an assessment of the project in a meeting held at the Mausam Bhavan, IMD, New Delhi on 4th April, 2018. The Committee made the following recommendations in regard to the functionality of the Kaziranga National Park site, Assam.

Long time observations are needed to study the interannual variability of the GHGs and energy fluxes. Effort should be made to repair the faulty sensors and resume the observations of the soil parameters. A methane sensor may be installed to estimate the methane fluxes in this ecosystem. The Committee also suggested to measure the OH radical in the atmosphere simultaneously with the methane observation.

Based on the recommendation of the Committee, the Director, IITM, Pune hereby approves the continuation of the above mentioned project for a period of three years (2018-2021). An amount of Rs. 18,16,760/- is being sanctioned for the current financial year.

The year wise break up details of funds, manpower and other cost sanctioned under the above mentioned project is furnished below.

Sub: Sanction of project on "Soil-Plant-Atmosphere Study in Relation to Net CO_2 Flux from Terrestrial Ecosystem of Assam"

Sir,

The Advisory Committee for the MetFlux India Project made an assessment of the project in a meeting held at the Mausam Bhavan, IMD, New Delhi on 9th July 2019. The recommendations are given below.

The data presented by the PI showed relatively high values of positive NEE during the night time, which may have been triggered by high soil respiration. Hence the PI should arrange to install a Soil CO_2 sensor to quantify the heterotrophic respiration. An EC sensor within the canopy should be used to characterise the under story carbon fluxes. Other bio-physical parameters such as, plant biomass, leaf are index, fresh litter fall etc. should also be measured on a regular basis. The Committee advised to carry out rigorous estimation of the NEE and its portioning into the GPP and ecosystem respiration. The relation between NEE and various biophysical parameters should be examined. Since a large area of the forest turns to wetland on a seasonal basis, the Methane fluxes may also be measured. The Committee, in principle, recommends allocating funds to meet the operational costs for the next three years, viz, 2019-2020, 2020-2021, and 2021-2022.

Based on the recommendation of the Committee, the Director, IITM, Pune hereby approves the continuation of the above mentioned project for a period of three years (2019-2022). An amount of Rs. 17,75,400/- is being sanctioned for the current financial year (Apr 2019 to Mar 2020).

2.3 Objectives:

Overall Objectives:

1. With a view to discover multi- and extensively-drug-resistant anti-TB drug leads, the overall objective of this project is to synthesize several series of compounds following molecular hybridization approach which will be executed by combining the structures of preclinical anti-TB drug candidates SQ109, BM212, and NITD-304 . In-vitro evaluations, hit identifications and assessment of structure activity relationships (SAR), lead optimization through synthesis of refined molecules and biological screenings are other objectives of this proposal.

Institute wise Objectives:

Central Drug Research Institute

1. To perform in vitro, ex vivo and in vivo screening of the synthesized compounds against drug-susceptible as well as drug-resistant Mtb isolates that includes activity utilizing conventional and specific media conditions.
2. To assess the cytotoxicity of the hits against Vero cells (those hits which possess MIC <1 mg/L and Selectivity index of >10, will be tested in the Intracellular killing of Mtb within macrophage/macrophage cell lines).
3. Assessment of the hits for static or cidality (those hits which have MIC <1 mg/L, Selectivity index of >10 and cidal will be assessed in in vivo mouse models of TB infection).

Tezpur University

1. To design and synthesize hybrids of SQ109 and BM212 as effective chemotherapeutic agent for the treatment of TB and MDR-TB.
2. To design and synthesize hybrids of SQ109 and NITD-304 as effective chemotherapeutic agent for the treatment of TB and MDR-TB.
3. To design and synthesize hybrids of NITD-304 and BM212 as effective chemotherapeutic agent for the treatment of TB and MDR-TB.

- Study the changes takes place in physico-chemical and rheological properties and microbial and enzyme inactivation and self-life vis-a-vis to different packaging material
- Development and Performance evaluation of OH assisted pilot scale technology for aseptic processing of fruit juice and pulp.
- Standardization of process conditions for selected fruit juice and pulp processing by OH.
- Study on the economic feasibility of the process based on the energy consumption.

Objective 2: To fabricate a laboratory set-up for Cold Plasma assisted processing for fruit juice and pulp.

Activity

- Collection of scientific information on effect of penetration depth, reactive species of cold plasma and flow conditions on inactivation kinetics of microbes and enzymes by cold plasma treatment in food model systems.
- Development of cold plasma assisted lab scale technology based on collected scientific information for processing of fruit juice and pulp and its Performance evaluation.
- Study the different plasma compositions and their effect on model food system in terms of selected microorganism, enzymes and nutritional quality parameters.

Objective 3: To standardize the processing conditions for fruit juice and pulp processing by Atmospheric Cold Plasma (ACP) and its effect on self-life enhancement and nutritional benefits.

Activity

- Procurement and installation of Atmospheric Cold Plasma (ACP) laboratory setup.
- Standardization of the process conditions for selected fruit juice and pulp by ACP treatment based on inactivation kinetics of microbes and enzymes.
- Monitoring of the changes in the physico-chemical and rheological properties after treatment during shelf-life study of treated juice with different packaging materials.

Objective 4: To disseminate the developed technology of fruit juice and pulp processing among prospective entrepreneur of NE region.

Activity

- Identification of prospective entrepreneur through stakeholder analysis.
- Capacity building of prospective entrepreneur through hands on training.
- Demonstration, dissemination, and popularization of developed technologies.
- Linking of prospective entrepreneur to the market.

Give the major expected outputs of the project.

- Facility concerning Ohmic heating-based pilot scale juice processing plant and related
- technologies
- Lab scale cold plasma set-up for the development of fruit juice products
- Published paper – 05-07 Nos

Considering coherence and practical limitations, the title for the two minor projects were finalized as:

1) Annotated Bibliography on SCs and STs in Social Sciences & Humanities (Ongoing project)

2) An Evaluation of Schemes under Dr. Ambedkar Foundation in the context of Mizoram (Proposed)

There were few suggestions to proposals which are incorporated while preparing a final version for these.

Apart from this, all the LAC members reiterated their previous recommendation for having curtains and other necessary items in the office of Dr. Ambedkar Chair.

Prof. K. Kikhi thanked all the members for their invaluable suggestions and necessary support. Meanwhile, he made all the members present aware about the developments towards proposed Ambedkar Memorial Lecture series where an informal consent was given by Prof. Faizan Mustafa (VC-NALSAR, Hyderabad).
