Name of the Study: Forest, Farms and Markets: An exploratory study in the Western Arunachal Landscape

Funded by: World Wide Find, Assam

Collaboration on research

Start and End Date: March 2021

Nature of Activity: Research Study

The collaboration was executed by Dr. Namami Sharma, Assistant Professor, Department of Social Work.

Brief about the study:

The research was located in the Western Arunachal landscape and focused on the two districts of West Kameng and Tawang. In this landscape, WWF has furthered the intrinsic environmental ethics of the communities and facilitated the formation of Community Conserved Areas. In the entire landscape of the Western Arunachal Pradesh there are a total of Nine Community Conserved Areas (CCAs). Since the objectives of the study is grounded on the interface between the forest and agriculture, this study will primarily be based on the CCAs. The objective of the study was to come up with viable livelihood interventions.
